Headline:
Dry with some long sunny spells.

Today:
A chilly start, with a few fog patches around, to a bright day with some long spells of sunshine, although the Solway coast may see rather more cloud at first and again later. Light winds. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Remaining dry with long clear spells through the evening and overnight. With light winds a few fog patches and a touch of frost are likely. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Thursday:
Another chilly start with early fog clearing to leave some good spells of morning sunshine. Cloud increases through the afternoon with outbreaks of rain spreading northeast. Freshening southerly winds. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Breezy with outbreaks of rain Friday, occasionally heavy in west around midday. Cloudy with patchy rain and drizzle in east over the weekend but the west looks drier and brighter.
